

Studying in the United States

[Music]

Introduction

My name is Luke Shorty. I'm the Executive Director of Strategic Initiatives here at Thomas College and we're excited to invite you to look around our website and see if Thomas College is the college for you and your higher education aspirations.

We know how difficult and challenging it can be in choosing a college for you to get your bachelor's or master's at. Especially if you're coming from a different country.

It's a long, arduous process and it can be a scary process and we're here to help you.

About Thomas College

Thomas College is second to none in what it offers, both in business, criminal justice, education, and all the variety of majors we offer, we offer them exceptionally well at a competitive price.

And we think that you'll find, as you look through our website, that the promise we have and what we do in preparing our students for careers is something that you're going to find very valuable and very interesting.

Contact Information

Now, if you want more information and this is something that is of interest to you as you look around, we invite you to reach out to international@thomas.edu and ask questions.

Our dedicated international admissions counselor will be in touch with you. We'll continue this conversation and just make sure it's the right fit because if you're looking for a safe, small, dedicated community for your education you don't have to look much further than Thomas College.

You'll be known by your fellow students, the faculty, staff, even the president! That's something that I believe has value to it, especially as you're trying to build your network here in the United States of America.

So, with that we hope that you'll consider us and that we can be part of your path to a promising future, guaranteed.

Thank you.