

Thomas Partner Highlight: MMA: What's the Catch

For us, you know you often hear that there's no such thing as a free lunch, or that, you know, when I hear something about an opportunity like this I always say, "What's the catch?" and for us entering into a partnership with Thomas College there really was no catch.

And we found that, you know, it works well for us and we're very happy to promote and make information available about these programs to our members and to our employees on a regular basis.

So, I would say for anyone who's considering exploring a partnership with Thomas for graduate education, it definitely has worked out well for us.

[Music]